Who is Learning Life Company? A 501 (c) 3 charity that offers the “Get in the Game” program - educational outreach for the purposes of teaching life skills to young adults. Sub-programs include:

- Life Skill Projects: Over 30 activities within these categories: Me & My Career • Me & Money • Me & My Space • Me & Society • Me & Wellness.

Activities are delivered in a variety of ways including community outreach projects; career preparation tasks; financial simulations; self-reflective written assignments; research-based assignments; role play; group games and more.

- EntreGivers: Service Learning with a Twist. LCo facilitates service-learning projects by first having students create a mini-business plan to create, execute and evaluate their service /community projects.
 - Schools or Organizations may have members create an Innovative Appendix with their business plan. When serving their community, the student would evaluate a problem and create a proposed, written solution in the Innovative Appendix. The school or organization chooses the angle of the solution: i.e. STEM based, creative arts based, athletic based, etc.
- Additional sub-programs can be seen at www.GITG.org including Ambassadors Connect, Job Readiness Projects, NAV Mentors and creative writing workshops. The website offers interactive blog posts, an array of third party resources for teens and families, and additional “Random Cool Stuff”.

2014 – 2015 Interests included:

- IDJC grant to serve juveniles with status offenses at the Coeur d’Alene Tribe. 2014-2015
- HARC (Helping at-risk Youth). Wendy Snodgrass has taught Life Skills and an Anger Management classes to adults in the HARC program who have previously been incarcerated and overcome substance abuse.
- Wendy is part of CCFL Global Academy, whose launch is expected summer 2015. She was chosen to be a Life Assistant for Young Adults, Specialist in the company of 30 other global professionals who are experts in family and self-improvement affairs, with the mission to: heal, empower and unite families. She will be teaching a one-hour class, once a month on the CCFL Global Academy website. CCFL = Creating Champions for Life.

- Wendy is on the roster to teach with the NIC WorkForce Training Center. The class is for parents, teachers and youth advocates. She will teach them how to facilitate life skill projects for their families, classrooms or organizations, using the Get.in the.Game platform.

Support:

- LLCo is recruiting board members (volunteer) to grow from a 5 to 7 member board. Please inquire!
- LLCo has 3 youth volunteers and is registered so court appointed individuals can obtain community service hours through LLCo. Inquire about volunteering or interning!
